: What is the problem?

Haitian immigrants in the United States are currently living with many health conditions such as diabetes, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, kidney disease, and obesity that could have been prevented with a healthy lifestyle.

The nature and magnitude of health problems among Haitians living in the United States necessitates actions to minimize and eliminate the trends. Sante Pam intends to create a healthy community through nutrition education to enhance awareness on the prevention of health conditions, facilitate healthy eating habits, and encourage physical activity.

Our solution

Sante Pam will continue to educate the Haitian community about healthier options targeting specifically Haitian's diet and culture.
